

Exchange Student Learns Not All Americans Are Rich

PETER GERARD, an International Farm Youth Exchange (IFYE) student, is spending 17 days in Pettis County with the George Mehan family, who resides on Route 127 north of LaMonte. In the United States since May 27, Peter has already learned many things about his host nation.

Attired in his country's native dress costume, Peter sat in the shade in the Mehan yard Tuesday afternoon and discussed his visit with Owen Fox, Pettis County extension youth agent, and The Democrat-Capital.

Before coming to the U.S., Peter said he had been told all Americans are rich, but "I find there are rich and poor in both countries," he confided.

Average farm size presents a striking contrast between the United States and the island nation of Ceylon. Peter says farms are 10 to 15 acres in his home country and Peter himself is the owner of a six-acre tract given him to homestead and develop under a young farmer agriculture development project of the Ceylon government.

Located off the southern tip of India, Ceylon is 25,332 square miles in area with a population of approximately 10 million. The nation's agriculture is underdeveloped and Ceylon annually gives six acres of land plus money to improve the acreage to 100 to 150 young farmers in each of the country's nine provinces.

VISITOR FROM CEYLON—Peter Gerard, an IFYE student from Ceylon, is interested in farm machinery and poultry and the George Mehan family, who are his hosts in Pettis County, show him the driver's seat on one of the family's two tractors. Left to right are Mr. Mehan, Mrs. Mehan, Sammy, 16, Peter and John, 13. Peter will be in this country until Aug. 2. (Democrat-Capital photo)

Peter says the land is mostly jungle before improvements.

The young farmers must reside on the farm five years before it is theirs. Peter had cared for his farm for two years before he was one of two out of 1,600 young farmers selected to take part in the IFYE program. One other girl from Ceylon was chosen. In Peter's absence his cousin is tending his farm.

Primarily, Peter is interested in poultry and farm machinery. The reasons are obvious. He raises 1,500 chickens on his farm in Ceylon and notes that most farm work there is done by hand while in the U.S. machinery is used for most all farm chores.

Agriculture price controls are not the problem in Ceylon that they are in the U.S.

Asks Delay On Rails Plan

So Congress Can Act On Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chairman Oren Harris, D-Ark., of the House Commerce Committee, asked the nation's railroads today to hold up for another 30 days the new work rules they propose to put into effect at 12:01 a.m. Tuesday.

He said Congress could not enact legislation to avert a strike by that time.

Harris asked for an answer within 24 hours.

He addressed his request to Daniel P. Loomis, president of the Association of American Railroads, as Harris' committee opened hearings on President Kennedy's plan to have the Interstate Commerce Commission consider work rules for train crewmen.

Loomis said he couldn't give a yes or no answer but that the railroads would consider the appeal.

Loomis went on to say another postponement would drain more

Two Year Term Given Rayl In Circuit Court

Richard Kenneth Rayl, 20, 1323 East Fourth, today pleaded guilty in Circuit Court to a charge of stealing over $50 and was sentenced to two years in prison by Judge Frank Hayes.

Rayl was one of two men charged in connection with the taking of some television sets and television testing equipment from the Caldwell Radio and TV Shop in Sedalia on June 7. Rayl was taken to the state prison at Jefferson City later in the day by the Pettis County Sheriff's Department.

Fred Lee Baugher, 47, 2717 South Ingram, is also charged in the same case and his case is under advisement.

Prosecuting Attorney J. R. Fritz said June 26 that Baugher would be given a polygraph lie test and that the findings of the test would determine whether Baugher would be bound over to Circuit Court. However, Baugher has not yet been given the lie detector test. Sheriff Emmett Fairfax was scheduled to take Baugher to Marshall where the test was to be administered, but Baugher objected and told Fairfax he should make the arrangement through his attorney, William F. Brown.

Police recovered the missing items at Baugher's residence, but he testified at a preliminary hearing in Magistrate Court that he was unaware the articles were there.

Driver Awakens To Halt Robbery

A truck driver for a Bolivar, Mo., firm told police that he was sleeping early Wednesday in his truck north of Sedalia and a young man attempted to rob him. The man, identified by police only as Mr. Means, said he had pulled his truck off Highway 65 about 11 or 12 miles north of Sedalia when he was accosted by the youth.

Means said he struggled with the youth and then the assailant broke away and ran to his car. The car drove north on Highway 65 and then turned west on a gravel road, Means said.

Means described the youth to police as tall and thin, about 19 years of age, wearing light colored Levis and no shirt. Means is a driver for the Midwest Dry Milk Company, Bolivar. The incident occurred about 2:30 a.m.

Fair Dispute Blame Placed By Committee

Loss of fire protection for the 1963 Missouri State Fair by the Sedalia Fire Department today was in effect laid on an ex-councilman by three members of the present City Council. The former councilman was not named by the three, however.

Second Ward Councilman Walter Jessee, chairman of the council's Fire and Water committee, said today that he and the other members of his committee, Councilmen Robert Bader and R. N. (Doc) Snavely, had investigated the circumstances which resulted in the selection of the Volunteer Firefighters Association of Missouri for service at the 1963 fair. "The committee learned that a former councilman of the Fire and Water committee, who is no longer a member of the council, had advised the State Fair officials

Fair Story Background

Plan Saves Money

Fire protection for the Missouri State Fair this year will apparently not cost the people of Sedalia up to $1,000 as it has in the past few years, but the handling by fair secretary W. H. Ritzenthaler in announcing the fire protection change have met with adverse comment from members of the Sedalia fire department and other Sedalia citizens.

Sedalia firemen learned in a round-about way last Friday—when a member of the department was at a school in Columbia, that a volunteer group would furnish fire protection at no cost to the fair.

This information aroused the ire of the firemen, who in addition to furnishing fire protection for the fair, during the fair season, also provide protection for the state-owned property during the year, and Mayor L. L. Studer, because the switch resulted in a "loss of face" for the City of Sedalia and the loss of several days pay for the firemen.

The mayor maintains Ritzenthaler should have at least, through courtesy, contacted the City administration before attempting to make a change in fire protection, instead of allowing the information to reach the administration through word-of-mouth sources. This would have allowed the city administration to discuss the matter before the annual budget was made out, so the $1,650 budgeted for fair fire protection could have been budgeted elsewhere.

Prior official information concerning the switch would have allowed the firemen involved, who have come to depend on the extra pay to buy things they could not afford to buy on their regular salaries, to work out their own private budgets to exclude the extra pay they expected to receive.

The switch brings up an obvious question: Will the Sedalia fire department furnish fire protection? (Please turn to Page 4, Col. 2)

Test Pact Accord

Signing Set For Thursday

MOSCOW (AP) — After nearly a whole day of negotiations, the nuclear test ban treaty was reported completed today and probably will be initiated Thursday.

Efforts to get the agreement today apparently were held up by prolonged discussions over the nanaggression pact wanted by the Russians but which cannot be negotiated by the British and American delegations here.

Black Eye For City In Switch

Firemen Perturbed At State Fair's Protection Plan

Fire Chief Emmett 'Potts' Vaught today withdrew a letter of retirement after members of the department gave the chief a vote of confidence at a special meeting Wednesday morning.

Chief Vaught had submitted a letter announcing his retirement to City Clerk Ralph Dedrick after Vaught and department members had learned indirectly they had been relieved of fire protection duties for this year's Missouri State Fair Aug. 17 through 25.

A motion to have Vaught withdraw his letter was made by fireman Lloyd Gordy and approved at the meeting held in station house No. 2 in the 200 block of South Kentucky.

Firemen also discussed possible action to be taken by the department in the wake of the State Fair fire protection switch, but Chief Vaught declined to comment if there were any decisions reached. The fire department's meeting was not open to newsmen.

Vaught submitted the letter in order that Dedrick could type it, but the letter was not signed and therefore could not be considered formally presented.

The fire department and Mayor L. L. Studer were taken aback when they learned of the fair's decision. The city had budgeted $1,650 for the State Fair operation in its annual budget prepared by the council's finance and taxes committee and submitted in June.

The Democrat-Capital has learned the State Fair completed arrangements for the Missouri Volunteer Firefighters Association to provide fire protection in February. (Please turn to page 4, column 3)

Two Year Sentence For a Bogus Check

James Lees, 28, Kansas City, pleaded guilty in Circuit Court today to a charge of obtaining money and merchandise by means of a bogus check and was sentenced to two years in prison by Judge Frank Hayes.

Lees was charged in connection with a check for $39.54 issued May 25 at the Little Red Shoe Barn on South Limit.

He was scheduled to be taken to Jefferson City to state prison later in the day by the sheriff's department.

Earlier, Premier Khrushchev said a "radical turn toward a better international climate" could result from signing the agreement.

But Khrushchev, as quoted by Tass, again tied the test ban closely to a nonaggression pact between NATO and the Communist bloc. He did not, however, specifically say the world could not have one without the other.

The premier's views were in a letter to the heads of state of the 30 African countries which took part in the Addis Ababa conference in May.

Tass distributed it around the world just as American, British and Soviet delegates were holding a hard working session at Spiridonovka Palace.

Western representatives had an urgent telephone call from the Soviet Foreign Ministry just before they went to the session.

Western diplomats were still hopeful the agreement could be signed today, but they cautioned newsmen there could be a slip. It could not be learned what last minute problem the Russians had raised. But the treaty draft was reported not yet complete for signing.

An air of happy triumph among the Western delegations Tuesday was modified this morning. But confidence continued that a test ban treaty would be concluded.

U.S. sources in Washington said it appeared Soviet Premier Khrushchev would not insist that a nonaggression pact unacceptable to the West accompany the test-ban treaty.

At Thompson-Greer Motors

Safe Robbers Fail To Crack a Vault

Would-be safe robbers failed to gain entrance to a safe at the Thompson-Greer Motor Co., 1700 West Broadway, early Wednesday morning, but succeeded in doing several hundred dollars damage to the safe and an office door.

The break-in of the building was discovered about 2:30 a.m. by Sgt. Charles Stuart and Officer Ted Finnell, who were making a check of business establishments.

The regular patrol of Officers William Raines and Don Stratton had checked the building shortly after midnight and did not find the window broken out. Sgt. Stuart, as is a custom, often back checks various business establishments after the regular patrol and it was during one of these checks the window was found to be broken out.

Stuart called for assistance and the building was surrounded by officers to avert an escape should the robbers still be in the building. Chief Ralph Hamlin was notified as was William "Bill" Greer, one of the owners and they went to the building.

Greer unlocked the front door and officers entered and made a thorough search, but found no one in the building.

The large two-door safe is located in an enclosed back room, just off the cashiers office and off the parts department. There is no outside window through which officers could check the safe from time-to-time, making it easy for persons to work on the safe without being detected. The thieves had pulled an acetylene torch from the workshop through the office and back through salesmen offices, jamming it against one door.

The person or persons pried open a door opening into the parts room, breaking the door and damaging the lock. Purpose was believed to make it possible for an escape route. Hinges on the big safe were hammered on and one completely knocked off, the combination dial was knocked off, and hinge nuts dislodged. The thieves apparently became frightened and

Costly to the City

Dutch Elms Toll At 1,500 a Year

Sedalia is losing a conservatively estimated 1,500 elm trees per year to Dutch Elm disease, dry weather and other causes, according to actual figures compiled from several sources today.

The City of Sedalia alone is losing some 500 elm trees per year from "parkways," the areas between the sidewalks and the streets, at a cost of about $5,000 per year for the removal of trees alone.

The Sedalia Park system is losing about 50 elm trees from the parks, and the median strips on 16th, State Fair and West Third. These trees are removed by employees of the Park Department, at an estimated cost of $35 per tree.

The Park Department, however, grows its own replacement trees, and in the past few years has replaced some 200 elm trees in the parks. Some trees are ready to be replanted now, but they will probably not be placed in Liberty Park. The park management said they will probably be used in Centennial Park.

The Green Tree Service is engaged to remove the trees from the parkways, and during the past fiscal year removed some 500 trees. Since money became available this fiscal year, the tree service has been asked to remove 70 trees so far, and there are many others dead and ready for removal.

The tree service removed some 500 trees from private property, other tree services remove more, and some private property owners remove dead trees themselves, and with all of these known and estimated tree removals, the figure will reach well over 1,500 per year.

A little figuring will show the trees removed from City property by the Green Tree Service costs the City about $10 per tree. This does not mean that the service will remove trees for $10. The City hires the service on an hourly basis, for a large volume of work, thus the figure for removal of a single tree from private property could be considerably higher.

Several tree surgeons and others working with care of trees were contacted and asked about Dutch Elm disease, and all came up with the same answer. Once the tree is infected, it might as well be removed, as the disease cannot be cured.

Dutch Elm disease can be prevented, however, if the tree is sprayed, from top to bottom, in early spring or late winter, with a solution used by tree surgeons and insect control people.

L. R. Black, superintendent of the City's parks, said the park system has acquired a spraying apparatus for use on trees in the

Post Office Site Option Not Dropped

Report Credited To Senator Long Is Without Basis

Sen. Edward V. Long, denied today a local television report credited to him last night that an option to purchase land on West Broadway for a new post office building would be dropped.

Long told The Democrat-Capital today that any announcement regarding a new post office for Sedalia would come from Congressman William Randall, Fourth district representative, or the post office department—not the senate.

The report, stated that Long had said remonstrance to a new post office building in Sedalia had resulted in the option being dropped and that a location for a new building would have been surveyed and that a survey would now be conducted. Long said he made no such statement.

The option on land referred to was negotiated by the post office department several weeks ago and involves about a $150,000 transaction, if consummated. The property is located between Montauk and Vermont on the south side of Broadway.

The senator did say that as far as he knows the option is still held by the post office department and that a new building is, "as far as I know," still being considered.

Patrol Says They Impede Traffic Flow

Slow Driver Is a Law Violator

It is not the weekend "boat traffic" that gives the Highway Patrol the most trouble in keeping traffic moving at a normal rate of speed on highways in this Central Missouri area, according to information obtained by The Democrat-Capital.

Sgt. E. W. Van Winkle, in charge of Highway Patrolmen stationed in Sedalia, said the biggest headache was created by the local Sunday driver, out for an afternoon of leisurely driving on highways with speed limits up to 70 miles per hour.

Traffic is heaviest on weekends in this area, with a volume of traffic moving from the west and headed toward the recreational areas around the Lake of the Ozarks on Friday and Saturday, and headed back toward Kansas City Sunday afternoon and night.

This traffic will keep moving at a rapid pace, Van Winkle said, if progress is not impeded by a slow driver, who in watching the countryside forgets, or just doesn't care, if there are a couple of dozen cars being held up while he is looking at the scenery.

This practice of slow driving is in violation of state laws passed in 1959, that give patrolmen authority to issue warnings and make arrests in cases where drivers refuse to move along at a speed equal to the normal flow of traffic on that particular highway.

There is no set speed for "slow driving." If the driver is driving at a speed slow enough to impede or block the normal flow of traffic he may be stopped and warned to move along with traffic.

For instance, if a driver is driving at 50 miles per hour in a 70-mile zone, and traffic was collecting up heavy behind his car, he could be considered impeding the normal flow of traffic, and be given a traffic summons to appear in Magistrate Court.

Slow drivers sometimes become highly indignant when they are stopped, even though they are in violation of state law. Van Winkle told of one instance whereby an elderly woman pulled into traffic at Flat Creek Inn, then drove into Sedalia at about 20 miles per hour. A patrolman noted she was impeding traffic in this area, but could not pass the heavy traffic in time to stop the lady until she stopped for the traffic light near Broadway and Limit.

When informed of her violation, the woman stated she did not know of the slow driving law, and after she was informed that she was violating the law she voiced her disapproval of the entire matter, even though the Patrolman did not issue a traffic summons—he only gave the woman a warning.

Van Winkle noted that the two-wheel boat trailers are usually designed to travel behind fast-moving cars without swaying or weaving back and forth across the roadway, and the owner usually has a car powerful enough to pull the trailer at high speeds. In fact, Van Winkle said, many of the cars pulling two-wheel trailers have been ticketed for speeding more than the 70-mile limit.

The heavier, four-wheel trailers sometimes give some trouble, but they are not so numerous, therefore they only occasionally im-

To Survey Motorists

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Motorists traveling on Interstate 70 near Boonville will be interviewed during an eight-day survey between July 29 and Aug. 8.

Announcing the survey today, the highway Department said the origin and destination study will be conducted at different times at two different locations.

One will be near Rt. P, about two miles west of the Missouri River bridge. The other will be about 1½ miles east of Rt. 135, southwest of Boonville.

The department said a nine-man crew under John Rollins, Jefferson City traffic recorder, will conduct the study to determine the economic effect of I-70 on Boonville and to find out how much traffic uses I-70 in preference to other cross state routes.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: We are two 15-year-old girls who disagree about something. Will you be the judge?

Jane says that when a girl is walking down the street and a boy whistles at her, the girl should turn around and say, "Thank you." She claims a whistle is the very highest compliment a girl can get and that she should let the boy know she appreciates it.

I don't think this is very lady-like. I would feel funny doing it. I always keep right on walking and I keep my eyes straight ahead. Who is right, Jane or me? —MISS WONDERMENT

Dear Wonderment: It is not in good taste to speak to strangers on the street — especially strangers who whistle.

Sometimes a whistle is more than a compliment — it's an invitation. The girl who acknowledges a whistle gives the impression that she is accepting the invitation. So keep walking, Petunia — eyes straight ahead.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I are in our late 50's. We have raised a fine family and now we want to relax.

Our daughter, Roberta, married outside her religion and has taken the faith of her husband. We did everything in our power to persuade her against it but without success. They have seven children and live in another state. Every summer Roberta comes with all the kids and spends two weeks with us. After two days we are ready for the booby hatch.

On Sunday, the one day in the week when my husband and I want to sleep late, Roberta and the children are bustling around at 7 a. m. getting ready for church.

The most irritating thing of all is that I must plan menus to suit them. On Friday they won't eat meat. Believe me, this is a big fat bore.

My husband says this year we should tell Roberta that either she and the kids live as we do or they can stay home. What do you say? —PRE-POOPED

Dear Pre-Pooped: So you have to open up three cans of tuna on Friday. Big deal.

The thing that really bugs you is that your daughter married outside her religion. Now that she has done so (and produced seven children) why not accept a fairly obvious fact gracefully instead of picking at her in an attempt to get even?

Dear Ann Landers: I just read the letter from that nut who wants his fourth wife back. I'll bet anything that letter was written by my ex-husband. I was his fourth wife and let me tell you I would not have the jerk back for all the tea in China.

I was only 17 when I married him — a green, dumb, country kid who believed all his candy-coated lies. When our son was born my husband's first act of paternal devotion was to sell our home and buy a trailer so we could live closer to the bowling alley. Then he could bowl every night instead of only 5 nights a week.

In two years he held the child in his arms twice. He was no father, no husband, no companion, no nothing. So I divorced him and married a wonderful widower with two small children.

We are expecting a baby in the fall and I am happy as a clam. —GLAD TO BE RID OF HIM

Dear Glad: And I'm happy as a clam you wrote. Several readers challenged that particular letter and insisted it had to be phony. I never publish a letter

Sprigg-Plummer Vows Exchanged In Blackwater

Baskets of yellow lilies, white hydrangea, small white chrysanthemums and burning tapers in seven branched brass candelabra formed the setting at the Methodist Church in Blackwater for the marriage of Miss Patricia Kay Sprigg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Sprigg, Blackwater, to Mr. John Earl Plummer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Plummer, Marshall. The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harold Johnson at six o'clock Thursday evening, July 4.

Mrs. Sammie Morris, Boonville, played wedding music. She also played the Lord's Prayer as the couple knelt.

Miss Marsha Plummer, sister of the bridegroom, lighted the tapers.

Escorted to the altar and presented for marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length white linen sheath dress with white accessories. Her shoulder tip veil hung from a capulet of small white flowers. She carried a bouquet of white carnations, yellow rosebuds, stephanotis, with short white streamers.

Mrs. Tommy Priester attired in yellow tulle and a capulet of small yellow flowers and white accessories, served as matron of honor.

Mr. James Clark, Marshall, was best man. Mr. C. L. Plummer, brother of the bridegroom served as usher.

Mrs. Sprigg chose a light blue lace dress and white accessories for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Plummer, mother of the bridegroom, wore a blue flowered sheer dress. Both mothers wore white carnations.

The reception was held in the church dining room immediately following the ceremony. A white cloth covered the bride's table, which was centered with the three tiered wedding cake, flanked by lighted tapers. The cake was decorated with white wedding bells and topped with large yellow bells. Mrs. Glenn Sprigg, Glasgow, served cake and Mrs. Kenneth Lee Sprigg, Union, served punch.

After a short wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks region the young couple is at home in Marshall.

The bride is a graduate of Boonville High School, and the bridegroom is a graduate of Marshall High School.

Before her marriage the bride was employed by the Cooper County Abstract Co., Boonville. The bridegroom is employed by Ken Plains Construction Co., of Marshall.

Bartender Charged In Star Holdup

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A bartender with a record of 46 previous arrests faces two charges stemming from the $35,000 holdup of the Kansas City Star credit union Monday.

John Samuel Rima, 34, arrested Monday afternoon as he sat in a parked car, was arraigned Tuesday on charges of first degree robbery and motor car theft.

Police Chief C. M. Kelley said Rima had been identified by the getaway car. Kelley said police were suspicious of Rima because of his arrest record, although none of the arrests resulted in convictions.

Rima was jailed in default of $15,000 bond set for his appearance at a preliminary hearing Friday.

Rima was arraigned in the clothes he wore when arrested—bermuda shorts, white shirt open

The money has not been recovered. The getaway car, found abandoned several blocks away, had been stolen—the basis for the auto theft charges against Rima.

Gunfire By An Officer Becomes Talk of the Day

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Cpl. William Davis, 26-year-old policeman, has resorted to gunfire three times in the past 14 months and killed two transgressors. Was he trigger happy, or did he really have a choice? It's the question of the day in Kansas City.

Cpl. Davis killed a burglar in the pitch-dark attic of an abandoned school Monday night.

By coincidence, the parents of his first victim—17-year-old William Robert Woods of Denver—had come to town to talk to Cpl. Davis.

"I thought we could stop him from hurting someone else," said J. L. Woods.

"That gun should be taken away from him," said Mrs. Woods.

Clarence M. Kelley, veteran FBI agent before he became Kansas City's chief of police, transferred Cpl. Davis to training duty Tuesday night.

In a five page review of the incidents, Kelley said there is no place on the force for a trigger-happy policeman but he could not fault Cpl. Davis on that count.

"In the heat of the chase and in view of the overt actions taken by the subjects indicating resistance, it would be very difficult for anyone to say he would have done differently under the same circumstances," the chief said.

"I feel he should be assigned to work where he will not be placed in a position where he will have to make a similar decision. A large part of my concern is due to the fact he might, if faced with another such situation, resolve it in favor of not defending himself, resulting in his own destruction."

"I am gratified Cpl. Davis joins me in this feeling."

Kelley said the fact Cpl. Davis was involved in three shootings in 14 months reflects the fact he is an industrious, conscientious and courageous officer. Davis joined the force late in 1959 and planned to make it a career. He is doing college work, pointing toward a degree in social science. He is married and an active churchman.

On May 9, 1962, he winged a 19-year-old who had been arrested for shop lifting and suddenly darted away from his captors through a busy downtown street.

Young Woods was killed on June 25 after he disarmed another officer who found him prowling in a parking lot beside a bank. In the intensive dragnet operation which followed, Cpl. Davis found Woods crouched beneath a construction shack near police headquarters. Davis said he thought the boy was about to shoot him. Woods had another revolver beside the one he took from the first officer.

Monday night, Davis, his police dog and two other officers answered a call to the abandoned school, where burglars were removing the copper roofing sheets. The policeman climbed from the roof down into the attic, heard noises and warned the intruders to come out with their hands up. He said he fired after he was hit on the head from behind.

The bullet hit the heart of Aaron Charles, 61-year-old Negro with a burglary record dating to 1934.

Young Woods also had a record. He served reformatory time for stealing a car in Denver, escaped from a psychiatric hospital and was free on bond pending trial on a charge of robbing and assaulting a Denver policeman.

His parents did not get to see Cpl. Davis.

64,000 FOREIGN STUDENTS STUDIED IN AMERICA IN 1962-63

THEY COME TO LEARN—The number of foreign students in the United States hit an all-time high this academic year—64,000 students, an increase of 11 per cent over last year and almost double the number 10 years ago. They came from 152 countries and were enrolled at 1,805 of the nation's 2,000 colleges and universities. Africa, with the smallest number of students, showed the greatest percentage increase. Canada sent more students here than any one country, followed by India and Nationalist China. In addition to the students, there were 6,000 teachers, researchers and other scholars from foreign countries and more than 7,000 interns and residents in U.S. hospitals. Meanwhile, the number of American students and teachers abroad fell 15 per cent, to a total of about 19,000.

Honor Union General

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The City Commission has honored the flight of a half-dressed Union general before Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest's Confederate raiders.

An ordinance to make a downtown alley "General Washburn's Escape Alley" was approved Tuesday.

One night in 1864 Maj. Gen. Cadwallader Colden Washburn fled his quarters clad only in his nightgown. His dress uniform was taken by one of Forrest's detachments.

Forrest returned the uniform. In response, Washburn had a uniform tailored and delivered to Forrest.

New Execution Date Sought For Pair

TOPEKA (AP)—The state has asked the Kansas Supreme Court to fix a new execution date for convicted slayers George Ronald York and James Douglas Latham.

The motion requesting the date, which would be the fifth set, was filed Tuesday. The two men have admitted seven murders during a cross-country crime spree.

A conviction was obtained for the killing of Otto Ziegler, a Union Pacific Railroad track inspector.

The last execution date which was set for the pair was stayed when they sought a federal district court writ of habeas corpus for a new trial. The writ was denied and the decision was affirmed in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Views Nixon, Romney As GOP Timber

TOPEKA (AP) — Postmaster General J. Edward Day said at a press conference in Topeka Tuesday he believes Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona, Gov. George Romney of Michigan and former Vice President Nixon are the top prospects for the Republican presidential nomination in 1964.

Day, who was in Topeka overnight, was to address a breakfast meeting of mail users today and then go to Atchison for the issuance of an Amelia Earhart commemorative stamp.

He predicted Nixon may make a strong bid for the GOP nomination. He said:

"In the deep split between the conservatives and the 'me too' Republican faction, there is only one man who can satisfy both elements of the party—Nixon."

The cabinet member said he believes that, based on present trends, Goldwater would carry a number of traditionally Democratic southern states.

At an informal dinner in his honor Tuesday night, given by the State Democratic Committee, Day sharply criticized Goldwater Conservatives. He asserted:

"The Republican arch-conservatives are basically believers in the old 'survival of the fittest' approach to social and economic problems."

"They have a deep seated fear of the rank and file, of the common man, of the run-of-the-mill American."

"It is just this kind of distrust that characterizes the thinking of Sen. Goldwater and his reactionary following which now dominates the Republican Party."

of "the life blood of an anemic industry."

"We've already been delayed and this has continued for some four years," Loomis said.

The railroads contend that forced employment of unnecessary workers is costing them millions of dollars a year.

Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, leadoff witness for the administration plan, sat puffing on his pipe as the chairman and the railroad official had their exchange.

Harris said he asked the railroads to postpone for 30 days their new, manpower trimming work rules to avert a national walkout. Rail unions have said they will strike the minute the rules are imposed.

Harris said he did not consider the request unreasonable and hoped the railroad would go along.

Loomis said the railroads have been trying to negotiate a work rules settlement for years and charged they are still being forced to make unnecessary payments for work not performed.

Loomis said that "become intolerable under present conditions."

Harris said that "after four years of discussions the work rules hassle was brought to the attention of Congress only day before yesterday."

Harris said it will take time for Congress to consider properly the "intriguing and unique proposal" President Kennedy has made.

Harris' plea was part of mounting congressional pressure for the railroads to delay putting in the new work rules.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen drafted a resolution aimed at keeping the trains running until Congress has time to act.

And various legislators of both parties voiced appeals that the railroads hold off on new work rules which a carriers' spokesman said Tuesday would go into effect at one minute after midnight next Tuesday as planned.

The five on-train unions have said in the past they will stage a massive walkout the moment the new rules—which would eliminate thousands of jobs—are posted.

Two congressional committees worked at full throttle on President Kennedy's recommendations for settling the dispute. But there were many doubts the measure could reach the White House for Kennedy's signature in time to beat the deadline.

Black said the apparatus has been used to some extent for spraying against aphids and other insects of this type, and a little money has been set aside for the purchase of Dutch Elm disease spraying materials to be used next spring.

tection for the fair property during the part of the year other than fair week? The Democrat-Capital up to Wednesday noon could not locate a written agreement between the city and the state of Missouri for such protection, nor could the newspaper locate anyone who knew of any "gentleman's agreement" for such protection.

It was learned, however, that this matter will be discussed at a meeting Wednesday night.

It is understood that the volunteer group will furnish fire protection free to the fair this year, but a cash donation is to be made to the volunteers. The amount of the donation has not been made public.

With the exception of police protection, the fair pays for other services the same as anyone else.

Up to a couple of years ago, Sedalia police made regular patrols of the fair grounds throughout the year, but this has since been turned over to the sheriff's office. Police only make occasional visits to the grounds, on special occasions. The sheriff or his deputies keep watch on the grounds, but this is only an added duty that cannot be considered a cost to the sheriff's department.

Garbage from the fair is carted away under contract awarded after bidding. The garbage is dumped at the city sanitary land fill, at the same cost as is charged anyone else—50 cents per load.

It is understood that a firm from Springfield will again remove the garbage this year.

Water is supplied by the Sedalia water department through three six-inch meters during fair week, and through one such meter at all other times during the year, at regular rates.

failed to use the cutting torch and departed through a rear window.

Police estimate the persons could not have been in the building for more than an hour and a half.

Raines and Stratton, in a double back on their beat drove in and around the Tasty Freeze shortly after 2 o'clock and it is believed the "lookout" for the thieves was the car and notified those inside and they quickly made their escape, probably seconds before the second police car arrived.

A check is being made of articles to determine if any fingerprints could be found.

The business was broken into and the safe entered several months ago, the safe broken open and robbed of about $200.

Awarded Medal of Honor For Helping the Blind

By PETER ARNETT

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—When the U.S. Embassy in Saigon told blind Genevieve Caulfield, 73, that she had been awarded the presidential Medal of Freedom, she gasped and said, "My goodness, whatever is that?"

She was genuinely astonished as the embassy told her it was America's highest civilian peace-time honor, and read off the names of some other recipients this year—Pablo Casals, Thornton Wilder, George Meany, Ralph Bunche.

"But why pick me?" Miss Caulfield asked in her soft, carefully modulated voice. The answer lies not in her dedication to a cause, like George Meany, or to the arts, like Casals and Wilder. In an age of the big gesture, Genevieve Caulfield, stooped now, and with iron gray hair, personifies the tiny individual efforts being made to help cure some of the ills of the world.

Miss Caulfield has spent 30 years helping blind children in Southeast Asia live normal lives. A doctor blinded her accidentally by spilling a bottle of corrosive medicine over her eyes when she was three months old in her home town of Suffolk, Va.

A year later, an operation restored some light perception in her right eye. Since then she has seen the world visually only as shades of gray.

When she went to Thailand in 1938 to try and establish a school for blind children, the first in the country, the people of Bangkok looked at her incredulously and declared, "Why help them? It is foolish."

Even now in Southeast Asia, Miss Caulfield says, the tendency is to write off retarded children as hopeless misfits.

She was not to be denied in Thailand. Her school, financed with her own meager savings, got off the ground in Bangkok late in 1938 with one pupil. She mastered the difficult Thai language and devised a Thai Braille alphabet.

The Thai government began supporting her after a few years and takes care now of one-sixth of the school's budget. The rest come from donations.

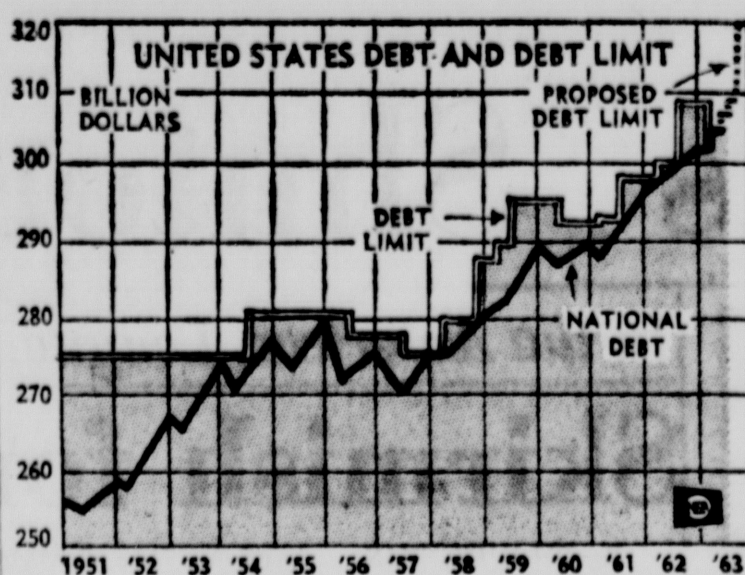

The school now has 145 pupils. There is another school with 40 pupils, run by the government.

Miss Caulfield estimates that in Thailand there are 30,000 blind people.

"When I think of all those people who are not taken care of I feel sad," she said. "But then, what can we really do? I feel my job is to try and make the people of these countries aware of their blind, and other retarded children and adults. But this way I can aid them."

Miss Caulfield's urge to help those afflicted as she is, built up over the years, first in the United States and then in Japan. She saved for seven years from her small earnings as an English teacher in New York to go to Japan to help the blind.

Finding Japanese blind programs highly developed, she re-

RAISING THE ROOF—Limiting the national debt seems to be as practical as limiting the height of a growing boy. As Newschart shows, the congressionally imposed debt "limit" has obligingly been raised every time the national debt approached it. Most recently, Congress was asked to raise the limit to $309 billion. It may be lifted to $320 billion by the end of the year. One advantage of a debt limit: It forces the administration to justify its spending before Congress and attracts national attention.

mained to teach English until she built up her savings and her courage to go it alone in Southeast Asia.

She was invited to Viet Nam by the Saigon government in 1958 and now commutes regularly from Thailand. In Saigon she established "The Friends of the Blind of Viet Nam," and got a tiny school going for blind girls.

The school, with its handful of students, is cramped and facilities are poor. But Miss Caulfield is not pressing the government of either Thailand or South Viet Nam to build more imposing schools.

"My work has always been on a small scale, as much as an example to the people here as anything else. If I can make the public realize that the blind can be taught to lead useful lives then I would have achieved enough."

In Thailand, her blind students have become telephone operators, typists and teachers. Nine have been sent abroad for study. Some American servicemen have offered to finance a group of young blind girls in Viet Nam to go to the United States for advanced study.

Miss Caulfield still takes an active part in the welfare of her students, but she leaves the running of her schools to highly trained locals. She is a familiar figure in Saigon and Bangkok, walking slowly by herself or on the arms of friends.

Occasionally, she revisits the United States on self-imposed

Grand Jury to Check US Nazi Activities

EMPORIA, Va. (AP)—An October grand jury will consider charges that American Nazi leader George Lincoln Rockwell and two followers conspired to stir up racial violence here.

The cases of Rockwell, Roy James, 25, and Donald Willey, 21, all of Arlington, Va., were certified to the jury Monday after preliminary hearing in county court. They were arrested last Friday night as Rockwell prepared to speak in front of Town Hall.

Rockwell, who was freed on $1,500 bond, has been calling for a counter-march by white people to the proposed Aug. 28 march of civil rights advocates into Washington.

She intends to stay in Asia as long as she is able to get around. "So much is to be done," she says. "I will stay here as long as I am able."

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms, ugly parasites that medical experts say infect 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Entire families may be victims and not know it. To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do... and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then—Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly and easily.

Sedalia Merchants Shutout Bolivar

As Semi-Pro Tourney Opens

The 1963 Missouri State Semi-Pro baseball tournament got underway Tuesday night with the Sedalia Merchants winning the opening game over Bolivar in an 8-0 shutout. The merchants are the defending champions, having won the 1962 tournament.

From the score, it was not exactly a true picture of the losing team which, although held to one hit, made but two errors. They displayed a good brand of baseball in spite of the batters being handcuffed by both "Skip" Schulz and Henry Mason.

Dempsey Says Liston Tough Guy to Fight

'May Be Some Time Before You Can Size Him Up'

TORONTO (AP)—Take Jack Dempsey in his prime and match him with Sonny Liston and how would it come out?

Take the word of an expert, there's just no telling.

"It might have gone either way," said Dempsey. "This kind of a fighter is tough to fight. He's liable to lick anybody."

"He's big and strong," the old heavyweight champion said of the latest titleholder. "And with today's crop of fighters, it may be some time before you'll be able to properly size him up."

Dempsey, 68, in Canada to look over some mining property in Quebec, said he had an invitation to watch the Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson rematch on closed circuit television Monday night, but passed it up.

"I didn't see it, but I figured," he said of Liston's first-round knockout of the former champion. "I had a chance to go, but heck, it's just the same thing all over again."

Dempsey, who lost his title to Gene Tunney, then lost again in a rematch, said he quit the ring because "I didn't want to get hurt."

Patterson, twice the victim of first-round knockouts, should do the same thing, he said.

"Floyd is a nice guy and has plenty of dough," Dempsey said. "He doesn't need to fight. He's an amateur, not a fighter. He can't take a punch and personally I don't think he can fight."

Dempsey reflected a moment, then added: "I shouldn't have said that."

How about Cassius Clay, the loud-mouthed, unbeaten challenger who is angling for a title bout with Liston in September?

"Cassius does a lot of talking, but I don't know how well he can fight," Dempsey said.

It was an indication the Merchants intend to recapture the title for 1963, displaying hustle from the time the first pitch was made until the final out came on Mason's strikeout pitches. The Merchants were hot with the timber, collecting 12 hits for their eight runs while the red light never flashed for an error.

The schedule for tonight will be Iberia Merchants vs. Fulton in the 7 p.m. opener, followed at 9 by Pleasant Hill and Whiteman Air Force.

How the scoring went for the Merchants:

The Merchants drew first blood in the bottom of the first inning by a pitchers error, to second when Dey sacrificed. Crank batted one over Perryman's head, the Bolivar's pitcher for a hit. Crank stole second while Morgan went to third on the hit. Perryman balked scoring Morgan and Crank went to third from where he scored on a suicide squeeze by Earl Finley. Two runs, one hit, one error.

With two outs in the second inning, Hill singled and Morgan obtained free trips to first on walks leading the bases. Then the most sensational catch seen in the park this season, which probably will not be overshadowed during the tournament, was made. Billy Dey rapped a liner down the right field line and at the 294 marker Lawrence Anderson, right fielder for Bolivar, dashed from his position far out in the field made the catch, crashed into the fence but held on to the ball for the out.

Don Crank hit the first pitch in the bottom of the third inning for a home run as the ball sailed over the right field fence. It was the only score. Finley singled but died on base. One run, two hits, no errors.

In the bottom of the fourth inning Hill singled. Bull Higgins on a force out was safe. Skip Schulz smashed the ball to center field, where it rolled under the fence, giving him a two base hit. Higgins being stopped at second. On "Bones" Morgan's sacrifice, Higgins and Schulz scored as first baseman Keeling made a bad throw to Shelton and Morgan circled around to second. That ended the scoring for the inning. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Sedalia scored again in the bottom of the fifth. One out already made, Jim Fall doubled down the first base line. He was followed by Sonny Thomas who rapped one to the field along the foul line and Fall scored. Hill popped to first base as his bat broke connecting with the ball. Higgins flied to left field. One run, two hits, no errors.

Sedalia leading 6 to 0.

In the top of the seventh Shelton led off for Bolivar with a hit to right center. Anderson fanned. Zumwalt out, pitcher to first. Crank made a sensational shoe string catch in center field of McCaister's liner.

In the home half of the inning Finley was out, second to first. Fall doubled to right center. Thomas rapped a hot single into right and the ball went to the fence with Fall scoring from second. Thomas held up at first. Hill struck out. Higgins struck out. One run, two hits, no errors.

Henry Mason went to the mound for Schulz in the top of the eighth. Perryman was relieved in the bottom of the seventh by Calton after six and one-third innings.

Incidentally, the lone hit of Shelton was the only one made off of Schulz.

Mason scored in the bottom of the eighth after getting a free ticket to first on walks. He went to second after Morgan struck out, then Dey got a walk, after which Finley's singled scored him. Crank popped to short ahead of Finley, and Fall grounded out to the second baseman. One run, one hit, no errors.

Greene Seeks Probe

PATERSON, N.J. (AP)—Abe J. Greene, commissioner of the World Boxing Association, has called for a congressional investigation of what he called "promotion cartels" that handle the heavyweight boxing championship.

Greene, in wires to Sens. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., and Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J., said that without "strong federal control and legislation... a major scandal, possibly overshadowing any of the past, is inevitable."

In the bottom of the fourth inning Hill singled. Bull Higgins on a force out was safe. Skip Schulz smashed the ball to center field, where it rolled under the fence, giving him a two base hit. Higgins being stopped at second. On "Bones" Morgan's sacrifice, Higgins and Schulz scored as first baseman Keeling made a bad throw to Shelton and Morgan circled around to second. That ended the scoring for the inning. Two runs, two hits, one error.

Skirmish for Second Place

By JIM HACKLEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The battle may be over for top spot in the American League—but that's quite a skirmish going on for second place.

There are no less than four teams in a virtual deadlock for the runner-up spot behind New York's surging Yankees, whose latest drive has carried them a whopping nine games ahead of the pack.

Here's how the also-rans in the first division stand — Boston is second, one percentage point ahead of Chicago and Minnesota and three in front of Baltimore.

All but the Orioles lost ground Tuesday night. Diego Segui posted his first shutout in the majors, pitching Kansas City over the Red Sox 1-0. Detroit took the White Sox twice, 5-1 on Norm Cash's eighth-inning grand slam and 6-4. Tito Francona's homer in the 13th gave Cleveland and Jim (Mudcat) Grant a 3-2 victory over the Twins ending the Indians' losing string at nine games. The Orioles blanked Washington 4-0 behind left-hander Steve Barber.

The Yankees? They won again, naturally, riding John Blanchard's home run slugging and the shut-out pitching of Stan Williams and Steve Hamilton to a 7-0 romp over the Los Angeles Angels.

Blanchard, the reserve outfielder filling in for the ailing Roger Maris, kept up his heavy hitting with a pair of homers for the Yanks, who clinched it with a six-run cluster in the fifth inning against the Angels.

Hamilton, relieving Williams in the eighth with the bases filled, killed that threat by striking out three men in a row and completed the shutout by getting out of another bases-loaded situation in the ninth. Paul Foytack was the loser.

Segui's breaking pitches and low fastballs checked the Red Sox and brought the right-hander his fifth victory in his last six decisions. He is now 6-3. The Athletics netted the game's only run in the first inning off rookie Bob Hefner on Wayne Causey's double and Jerry Lumpe's single.

In addition to his clinching grand slam in the opener, Cash belted another homer in the second game as the Tigers swept the White Sox and finished the double-header with four hits. His four-run homer came after Detroit had loaded the bases in the eighth with two out and gave the pitching victory to Hank Aguirre, who scattered 11 hits.

Al Kaline had three singles and three runs batted across in the second game, won by Bob Anderson over Dave DeBusschere.

Both Grant and curveballing Camilo Pascual went all the way in the Indians-Twins marathon at Cleveland, ended by Francona's homer with two out in the last of the 13th. Grant, 7-9, allowed nine hits and blanked Minnesota on four over the last 10 innings. Pascual gave up seven hits, including a homer by Willie Kirkland in the sixth after a double by Francona.

Barber won his 13th of the season and first in four weeks with a four-hitter as the Orioles beat the Senators for the ninth time in 10 meetings this year. Baltimore nipped Claude Osteen for a run in the first inning, and nailed it down with three more in the sixth, the final two riding in on John Orsino's homer.

First Time This Season

Cardinals Beat Milwaukee

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The St. Louis Cardinals won their first game of the year against the Braves in Milwaukee Tuesday night, 5-1, behind the four-hit pitching of Ray Sadecki and Ron Taylor.

It was the sixth victory in the last seven games for the Cards. Kansas City's Diego Segui also racked up a first Tuesday night. He allowed only 6-hits in recording his first shutout in the major leagues, 1-0 against Boston, while recording only his second complete game of the season. Segui has now won five of his last six games for a 6 and 3 record.

Dick Groat boosted his National League leading batting average to .343 as he connected for four singles in five times at bat.

The Redbirds got a total of 14 hits off of five Milwaukee pitchers. Starter Bob Hendley took the loss and Sadecki was credited with his sixth victory against six losses.

Curt Flood, Bill White, Charley James and Gary Kolb each had two hits in the Card attack.

Two Points For Success In Pitching

CHICAGO (AP)—Maturity and ability are two of the assets needed to become a winning major league pitcher and Jim Maloney of the Cincinnati Reds has acquired both talents in one season.

The 23-year-old right-hander, who in three previous seasons in the majors could amass only 17 victories, rang up his 15th of the year Tuesday against the Chicago Cubs with a magnificent one-hit, 1-0 triumph.

Maloney, who has lost only three games this year in comparison to 20 in previous major league competition, considered his job against the Cubs the greatest of his career.

Ellis Burton's single through the left side of the infield in the first inning was the only hit off Maloney who finished strong and struck out 13.

Maloney is a product of Fresno, Calif., High School and played on the same prep team which had Dick Ellsworth of the Cubs as its star pitcher.

"I played shortstop on the team," says Maloney, "and was used as a third pitcher when we got into tournaments. Dick and Len Rube were the team's regular pitchers."

Ellsworth, who has a 13-7 record and will face Cincinnati today, signed a bonus contract the day after he graduated in 1958. Maloney went on to college for a semester and finally signed a bonus contract with the Reds in April 1959.

He flourished until this season when he developed a sidearm fast ball and curve to go with his overhand fast ball and curve.

"I finally got those other pitches to a point where I could control them and went from a loser to a winner," said Maloney. "This has to be the best game I've ever pitched."

Del Crandall's home run accounted for the Braves' scoring. Kansas City got the winning run in the first inning on a double by Wayne Causey and a single by Jerry Lumpe.

Red Sox rookie Bob Hefner took the loss.

Ernie Broglio is expected to start for St. Louis against Milwaukee's Denny Lemaster tonight.

In a two-night doubleheader the A's will start Orlando Pena and Dave Wicksham against Earl Wilson and Dave Morehead for Boston.

Formula for Winning

17th Shutout For Dodgers

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

You can't beat the Los Angeles Dodgers' formula for winning. Just keep the opposition from scoring.

The Dodgers turned in their 17th season shutout Tuesday night as left-hander Johnny Podres protected their six-game National League lead with a 6-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Already ahead of their previous Los Angeles shutout record of 14 set in 1959, the Dodgers need only five more runless victories to equal their all-time Brooklyn high of 22 in 1906 and 1916.

Six of their shutouts have been by 1-0 scores. Only once since 1890 have the Dodgers won more by the lowest of shutout margins. That was in 1907 when the Dodger staff fashioned seven 1-0 victories.

Podres was not particularly overpowering in spinning his fifth shutout of the campaign and 10th victory in 16 decisions. The 30-year-old southpaw permitted seven hits, walked three and allowed a Pirate runner in every inning but one. Three double plays, however, pulled him out of as many jams. John struck out six.

The second-place St. Louis Cardinals defeated Milwaukee 5-1 for their fourth straight victory. Jim Maloney pitched a one-hitter for Cincinnati, beating the Chicago Cubs and Larry Jackson 1-0. Willie Mays cracked a pair of homers in the Giants 9-1 rout of the New York Mets and Houston snapped a six-game losing streak beating Philadelphia 6-5 in 15 innings.

Bob Friend, Pittsburgh's hard-luck right-hander, allowed the Dodgers only five hits and one run before bowing out for a pinch hitter in the seventh inning but absorbed his ninth defeat, four via shutouts. The Dodgers cemented their victory with a five-run assault upon relievers Al McBean and Harvey Haddix in the eighth. Tommy Davis drove in the first two runs with a single and rookie

Ken McMullen the last two with his third home run.

Dick Groat paced the Cards attack against five Milwaukee pitchers with four hits, raising his league-leading batting average to .343. He scored after the first of his four singles in the opening inning and drove across the final tally in the eighth. Southpaw Ray Sadecki, with relief help from Ron Taylor, squared his season record at 6-6.

Maloney, a 23-year-old Cincinnati right-hander who throws as hard as anybody in the league, fanned 13 Cubs and allowed only three baserunners, all on walks, after yielding a first-inning single to Ellis Burton. It was his 15th victory against only three losses.

The game's only run was scored in the eighth. Tommy Harper singled and was forced by Vada Pinson. Gordy Coleman singled Pinson to third and Frank Robinson scored him with another single. It was Jackson's eighth loss in 19 decisions.

Juan Marichal registered his 16th victory with a four-hitter for the Giants, who inflicted the 15th straight loss upon Roger Craig. The Giants bombed the Mets' veteran right-hander for seven runs in the first two innings. Mays finishing him off with a two-run homer, his 20th. Willie socked his 21st off southpaw Ken MacKenzie in the sixth.

Craig, who has a 2-17 record, won his last game April 28 when he beat the Dodgers 4-2.

Al Spangler and John Bateman teamed up for Houston to snap the Phillies seven-game winning streak, longest for Philadelphia since 1955. Each had three hits, scored a run and drove in another.

Bateman, whose single had tied the score in the eighth inning, opened the 15th with a triple. One out later, Spangler came through with a single to end the 4-hour and 16-minute marathon. Dick Farrell, who fanned five batters in a two-inning relief stint, was credited with the victory, his seventh against 10 defeats. The loss was charged to John Klippstein.

Liston Views On Monday's Title Fight

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The Sonny Liston-Floyd Patterson rematch, if there is such a word, is now in the record books, possibly as an asterisk.

Everything happened just as most people thought. It ended quickly.

The champion made one miscalculation.

Soon after he flattened Floyd in 2 minutes, 6 seconds, in Chicago last September, Sonny said Patterson could have the return go but he wondered if anyone would be interested.

"We could hold it in a telephone booth and still have room," said Liston.

It turned out there were enough curiously crazy people to make it a $1-million venture. The closed-circuit television outlets may gross $1,250,000 and the gross gate here for the live "fight," was $286,180.

Everything else Sonny said was true.

He is not a boastful man. He deals in facts, facts as hard as his life has been.

He said he would go out swinging and Patterson would go out.

After the fight Sonny expressed disappointment to intimate friends, one of them his Las Vegas host, Ash Resnick. He said he was never able to hit Patterson with what he considered a really good punch. The fact that even an ineffective Liston punch, if there is such, did the job, was of no great consolation.

Liston said the best one he landed was the finisher, a left hook that put Floyd flat on his back for the third and last time.

Liston's plans are indefinite but Cassius Clay undoubtedly will be his next opponent. While a September date in Philadelphia has been forecast, the champion indicated he might not fight until next spring.

Class-packed Field To Open Tourney In 60th Western Open

CHICAGO (AP)—A class-packed field, headed by Jack Nicklaus, Julius Boros, Bob Charles and slumping Arnold Palmer, will open competition Thursday in the 60th annual Western Open Golf Tournament at the Beverly Country Club.

Nicklaus, 23-year-old Columbus, Ohio, heavyweight, was due to play his first practice round today since his come-from-behind victory in the Professional Golfers Association championship at Dallas last Sunday. With Boros and Charles, Nicklaus is part of the trio that holds all the world's major championships. Nicklaus earlier won the Masters crown while Boros won the U.S. Open and Charles the British Open.

Jacky Cupit of Longview, Tex., who with Palmer was beaten by Boros in the National Open play-off, is the defending champion in the $50,000 tournament that carries a first prize of $10,000. He's back along with such standouts as Sam Snead and Tony Lema.

Track Team To Tune Up Next Time

WARSAW (AP)— Never again will the United States track team go to Moscow for the annual dual meet with the Soviet Union without stopping off for a warm-up meet first.

That seemed certain today, after the coaches and officials had finished their analysis of the recent American invasion of Moscow that turned out only slightly better than Napoleon's.

"I am making the very strong recommendation that we have at least one tune-up meet before the Russian meet in the future," coach Payton Jordan said here where the team is preparing for the meet with Poland Friday and Saturday.

I also think it is a good idea to get into Moscow only a day or two before the meet, and stay a few days afterwards for sight-seeing," Jordan said.

The team spent a week in Moscow this year before the meet, then almost lost it. The girls' team suffered one of the worst humiliations in American international sports history.

Actually, the team went to Moscow a week in advance to meet objections that they had been going there in the past without proper time to become accustomed to the food and water.

Beatty Out of Race

WARSAW (AP)— Los Angeles distance runner Jim Beatty said he was returning home because of a sore tendon and would not compete with the U.S. track team touring Europe.

Cards Back On the Beam; Groat Leads

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals are back on the beam after an eight-game losing string and veteran shortstop Dick Groat is leading the way as the hottest hitter in baseball.

The second-place Cardinals posted their fourth straight victory and sixth in the last seven games by defeating the Milwaukee Braves 5-1 Tuesday night as Groat collected four singles in five times at bat.

In the current winning streak, Groat has 14 hits in 18 trips to the plate, raising his National League-leading average from .326 to a hefty .343. He topped the league with a .325 mark and earned Most Valuable Player honors in leading the Pittsburgh Pirates to the pennant and the World Series championship in 1960.

"The hits are finding the holes and I'll take them," Groat said. "I'm hitting the ball as well as I ever did, but it's too early to think about another batting title. The average can go down a lot faster than it goes up."

The 32-year-old Groat wielded his bat in typical fashion in the opener of a 3-game series with the Braves. In the first inning, he grounded a single through the hole to right and scored a run. He grounded out to short in the third, singled to left in the fifth and then looped another single to right in the sixth. He finished by grounding a single to right, driving in a run, in the eighth.

The Cardinals obtained Groat from the Pirates last fall as rumors persisted in Pittsburgh that he had slowed down too much to continue as a shortstop.

Tennis was introduced into the United States by Miss May E. Outerbridge, who spent the winter of 1874 in Bermuda and saw the game played by British officers there.

Dr. Haley's Will To Probate Court
OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — A will left by Dr. Jack A. Haley, Kansas City surgeon, slain a week ago today, has been filed with the Johnson County Probate Court.
Mrs. Doris V. Haley, held in the Johnson County jail on a first degree murder charge in her husband's slaying, was named executrix.
Wendell E. Haley of Denver, the doctor's brother, filed the will for probate and asked that a bank be named administrator of the estate. He contended Mrs. Haley is not fit to handle it.
The will was hand-written on notebook paper and dated Feb. 8, 1962. Mrs. Haley's four children, Dr. Haley's mother, his six brothers and two sisters were named beneficiaries. Mrs. Haley was to receive the home in Prairie Village, a suburb of Kansas City, and the proceeds of a trust fund.

British Honduras Gets Complete Home Rule

LONDON (AP) — Britain has granted complete home rule to her Central American colony, British Honduras.

A new constitution, unanimously agreed at a conference which wound up Monday, will take effect Jan. 1, 1964.

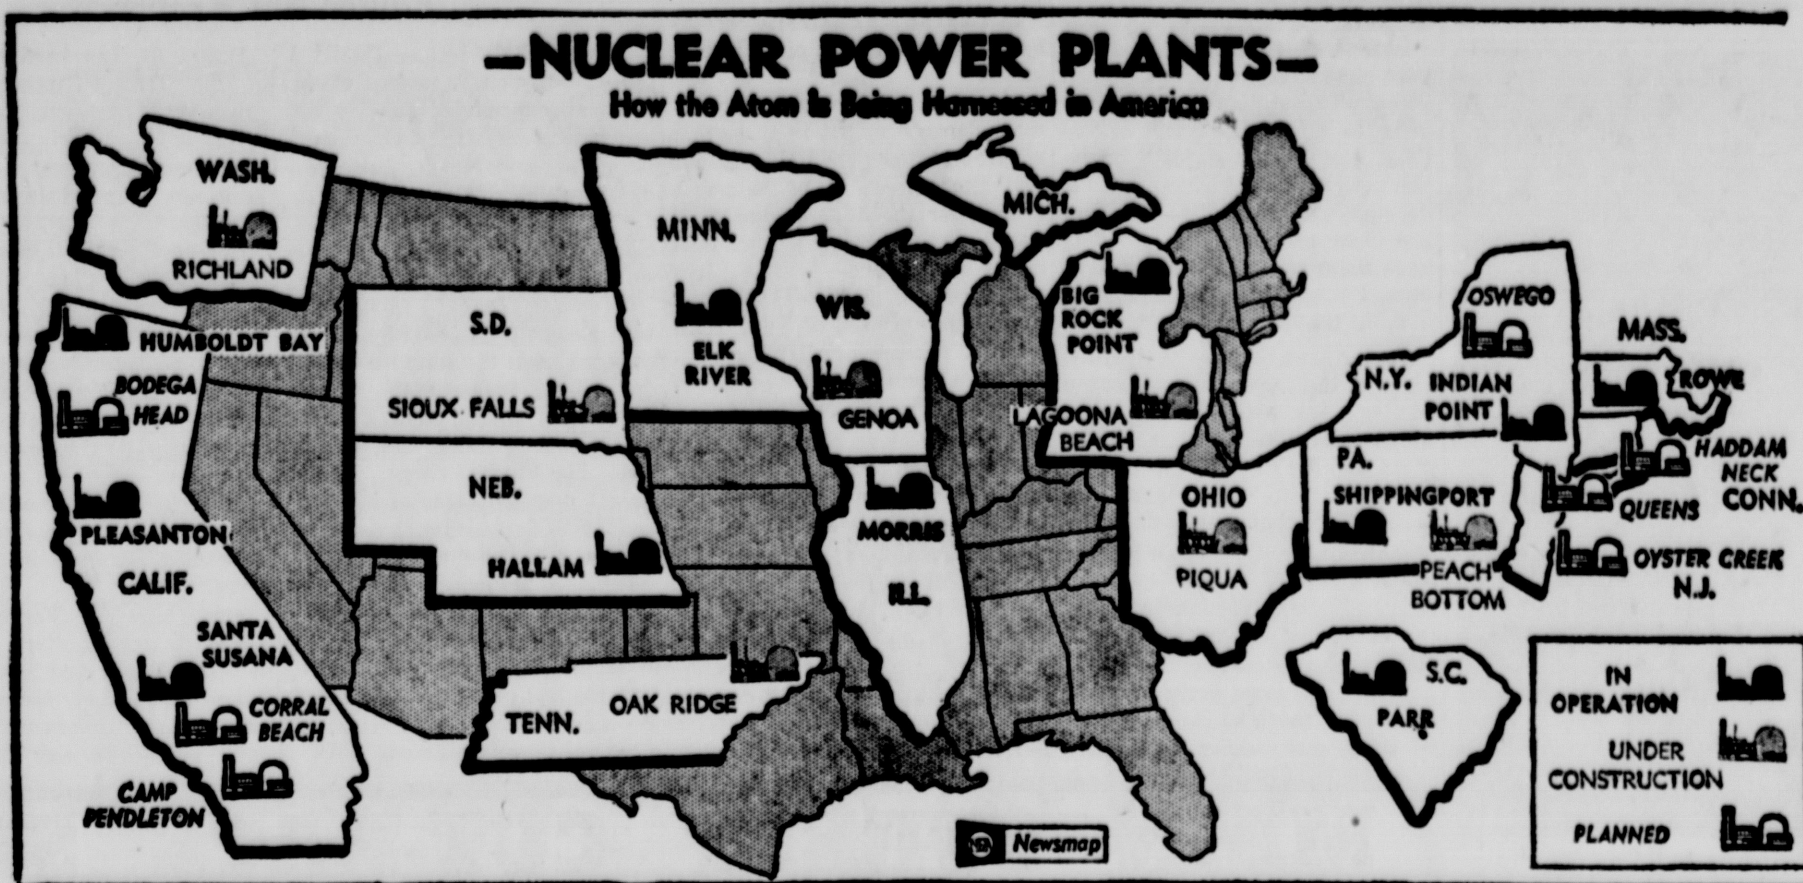

The talks between British Honduras leaders and British government officials led by Colonial Secretary Duncan Sandys had been going on for 12 days.

Conference delegates said the new arrangements will leave management of British Honduras external and defense matters under London's control.

Italian Slum Dwellers Clash With Police

NAPLES, Italy (AP) — Slum dwellers demonstrating for better housing clashed with police Monday. Three policemen were hurt by stones and bottles.

More than 200 residents of one of Naples' many slum sections blocked traffic in a move to dramatize demands for special low-cost housing.

Over 20 years since the first controlled nuclear chain reaction and six years after the first commercial reactor went into operation at Shippingport, Pa., atomic power plants are beginning to sprout over the face of America. As Newsmap shows, there are 25 commercial plants either in operation, under construction or in the planning stages. There is also one being built in Puerto Rico. They range from a small 11,400-kilowatt plant in Piqua, Ohio (first city to have its own nuclear power plant), to a one-million-kilowatt plant planned for the New York City Borough of Queens. While still more expensive than conventional methods of generating electricity, atomic power is narrowing the gap by constant improvements. The Atomic Energy Commission estimates that it will be fully competitive within five years, ushering in the much talked about day of cheap and abundant energy liberated by man's genius from the atom.

MILESTONE ON THE MIAMI—It may not be a particularly handsome building, but this structure overlooking the Miami River is the proud new landmark of small (19,500) but progressive Piqua, Ohio. Just as it led larger cities by manufacturing electricity as early as 1884, Piqua will soon become the first city in the United States to operate its own nuclear power station. The atomic reactor enclosed in bulging, 70-foot-high white dome above will produce steam. This will be piped across the river to the municipal power plant where it will turn generators to produce 11,400 kilowatts of electricity, about half the city's normal needs. The reactor was built by Atomics International, a division of North American Aviation, for the Atomic Energy Commission.

Report On Gen. Maxwell Taylor's New Military Post

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON — Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, once a firebrand in defense policy battles, has packed away his "Uncertain Trumpet" and deliberately blended into the Pentagon background.

In the year since President Kennedy chose him as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, Taylor has kept away from the public eye while developing his chosen role—that of a bridge between the professional military and the civilian authority.

He has purposefully subordinated himself as Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's chief military adviser.

From all available evidence, Taylor has avoided trying to keep open any special channel to the White House where he served as Kennedy's personal military adviser before the President elevated him to JCS chairman.

But he retains undiminished stature at the White House where the multilingual soldier-scholar is accepted as an intellectual equal.

Those in position to know say McNamara and Taylor make a good team. Both are strong-willed men of firm opinions. They have differed, and will again, but there is mutual respect.

There is respect, too, between combat-veteran Taylor and the other military chiefs—but the Air Force and Navy feel the JCS chairman still has too much of an Army point of view.

On a number of key issues, Taylor has disagreed with all the service chiefs—Gen. Early G. Wheeler, Army chief of staff and a protégé, as well as Gen. Curtis LeMay, Air Force chief of staff and Adm. George W. Anderson, soon to leave as chief of naval operations.

These disagreements have been marked by an absence of personal conflict. A year ago, there were all sorts of predictions Taylor would clash heatedly and repeatedly with LeMay and possibly Anderson.

This was because of Taylor's background of strong partisanship for Army views and his record of conflict particularly with the Air Force in the days when he was Army chief of staff during the Eisenhower administration.

People remembered the stands he took in the "Uncertain Trumpet," a book he published after retiring as Army chief in 1959. The book was a blast at Eisenhower administration defense policy, particularly reliance on massive nuclear retaliation and what Taylor considered neglect of conventional forces, especially the Army.

One of Taylor's most controversial proposals in that book called for replacement of the joint chiefs with a single chief of staff supported by a military advisory committee.

When Taylor, his chest stacked with ribbons, appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee last August he declared: "I am not returning, if you gentlemen confirm me, as a crusader for change but rather one to make the present system as effective as possible."

It should be noted that much of what Taylor has advocated in his book already had been adopted as policy by McNamara and his new civilian leadership before Taylor returned to the Pentagon last Oct. 1.

The slim, frosty-eyed general who jumped into Normandy during World War II with his 101st Airborne Division and who commanded the 8th Army in Korea has seen his doctrine of flexible response become the order of the day.

By flexible response, Taylor meant the ability to deal with any kind of military threat from subversion and guerrilla warfare to all-out nuclear war.

Under the Kennedy administration, the Army has been built up markedly—although it still is 25,000 men below the million-man level he has advocated and still supports.

"Instead of moving to junk the joint chiefs system—as many had feared—Taylor has bent his efforts to streamlining its operations. He prods the joint Army-Navy-Air Force-Marine staff to develop studies and papers that are clear and persuasive, and to have them ready in time to have impact on the civilian leaders making the decisions.

Taylor tries to make certain the views of the chiefs—their separate positions as well as his own, which may differ—reach McNamara and the President in time to figure in the decisions to be made. The chairman's duty, he believes, is to see that every service gets its day in court.

During the Eisenhower days, the emphasis was on reaching a compromise — on avoiding "split papers," and some decisions were delayed as much as two years until some compromise was ready to be forwarded topside. In contrast, McNamara encourages the presentation of individual views.

But the defense secretary is more demanding. He requires that all presentations spell out reasons and alternatives. It no longer is enough for the JCS to send up a paper saying simply "the joint chiefs recommend—"

McNamara, hard driving and sometimes accused of being ruthless, is admired by Taylor who has been accused of being ruthless himself.

The defense secretary and the JCS chairman are on a "Bob" and "Max" footing and lunch together at least once a week.

McNamara does not stand on protocol. If he feels the need to, he sometimes comes down one flight from his spacious office to visit Taylor in the chief's suite on the Pentagon's second deck.

When Taylor sits in with the top level National Security Council at the White House, he does so on McNamara's invitation.

Of course, Taylor's relationship with Kennedy has definitely changed from the time he was on the White House staff as the President's military adviser. He sees Kennedy much less, but he feels his words carry greater weight now by virtue of his position as JCS chairman representing the other military chiefs.

Taylor's influence remains undeniably strong in the executive offices. He has had a leading part in formulating policy on aid to Communist-threatened India, on the war in South Vietnam, on a host of other problems.

Finder Not Keeper

Duffy, 69, has been supervisor of the Transit Authority's lost property department since 1941. His most unlikely find, Duffy said, was a tombstone—which he promptly returned to its owner.

During the Cuban crisis—which broke out only two weeks after Taylor moved into the JCS chairman's post—the general was picked by Kennedy for service on the "Ex Com," a top level group which charted US moves that ultimately led to the Soviet Union's backdown.

Although Taylor sometimes splits with the other chiefs, there is nothing personal in their disagreements.

Some high Air Force officers profess to see a pattern in which, they say, Taylor and Wheeler tend to line up on many issues against LeMay and Anderson. But top Navy authorities say they have detected no firm pattern.

On two major issues, Taylor opposed the stand of all the other three. LeMay, Anderson and Wheeler all favored pushing ahead with the Air Force's RS70 bomber development and with the Skybolt missile. Taylor ranged himself on the side of McNamara against both projects. Both have been dropped.

Approaching 62, Taylor carries his age well. He is slender and wiry, and his iron-gray hair shows no sign of thinning.

The four-star general lives at nearby Ft. Myer, Va., in a comfortable home overlooking the capital.

Early in the morning, he walks much of the way to the Pentagon, cutting through Arlington National Cemetery where many old comrades lie.

A six-day work week is normal, but on Saturdays he shows up sometimes in a relaxed mood wearing a sport jacket and slacks.

Optimists Devote Program To Project Reports

The Optimist Club met Tuesday noon at Bethel Hotel, with the program devoted to the activities of boys work, which is the project of the club, as well as other business.

Chief of Police Ralph Hamlin discussed the Babe Ruth program, and made suggestions for the project next year, while Dr. Russell Drenon stated that soccer would be started again this fall.

Joe Forsee gave a report on the District 8 board meeting held at Columbia last week, stating that there are more than 80 clubs in the district. The State of Missouri, he said, ranked first in Optimist International. There were 27 registered at the board meeting.

Forsee said.

Sedalia is in Zone A, of which Ken Kirschner of Jefferson City is lieutenant governor. There are BOBBY BARRICADE—There's no "thin red line" tradition among London police when it comes to dealing with unruly mobs. Here police—and women—lock arms to form a moving wall to force back street demonstrators during the recent visit of Queen Frederika of Greece. Protesters charged the Greek government with unjustly imprisoning political opponents.

seven clubs in the zone, Forsee told the group. In the absence of Ed Mitchell, Fox at the piano, R. L. Settles was program chairman. Clinton Black, first vice-president, presided over the meeting by Lee Deason with Joe Forsee as song leader and Miss Lillian George Mosley was introduced as a guest of Harry Young.

Final Arbiter Necessary

It is a commonplace that the president of the United States gets no easy matters for decision. More commonly than it is, the same ought to be said of the United States Supreme Court.

Hearing only some 200 cases a year, it has no time for small things. It must focus on questions of broad import.

The pressures of time, however, are not crucial in compelling this concentration on large judicial affairs. The fact is, this is the high court's function.

A former American Bar Assn. president, Charles S. Rhyme, who has tried a hundred cases before the Supreme Court in the past 25 years, calls it this country's great "organ of decision."

He argues that any free government needs such a final arbiter. For, inevitably, there will be many potential stalemates as major conflicting interests battle for position in the arena. Who is to break them or prevent them if there is no place of last resort?

Not the least reason for this nation's pre-Constitution paralysis under the Articles of Confederation, suggests Rhyme, was the absence of anything like the present high court.

He sees it as fitting and necessary that we shape our great controversies for ultimate decision at this level. We cannot leave them undecided. The other courses would be either a new paralysis or conflict approaching war.

The Supreme Court's role as final resort is not an enviable one. The great controversies it hears are almost certainly charged with emotion. The court knows powerful, sometimes socially disruptive consequences may follow its decision. Its members know, too, that they are human and can make mistakes.

This is perhaps the key reason it so often moves slowly. Yet the time for choice always comes when the end of the road is at hand and deeply entrenched stalemate threatens to become permanent.

Inescapably, critical decisions are unpopular with many. If they were not, the high court's interest in the issue involved probably would be misplaced.

But here Rhyme makes a significant point. It is every citizen's right and privilege to assail the court's rulings, especially when it is recognized that human judgment can err. Nevertheless, the lawyer argues, it is wrong to direct this attack against either the court as an agency or the judges as individuals.

They, sitting as a court, are acting in the difficult, unpopular task for which they were chosen. We must presume they are doing so according to their oath, and to the best of their ability.

If we do not place our faith in them, as individuals and as a body, then in whom may we place it? Should the president, leading the nation, be the judge of affairs he often initiates? Should the Congress, embroiled in politics and passing many laws whose language it hardly knows, be the appraiser of its own acts?

Only the Supreme Court stands at all aloof. Even it can be jarred from its vital detachment. But it is still the only great organ of choice our system of government has given us.

Kennedy's Rail Plan a Shrewd One

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy's plan for solving the railroad dispute—or at least postponing a showdown until after the 1964 election—should fry several kinds of fish, none of them to his disadvantage.

1. It should eliminate the dispute as an issue in the election campaign.

2. It should avoid getting labor in general mad at him.

3. It should take the railroad union leaders off the hook.

4. It should help the railroads begin saving money.

All this is conditioned on one thing: that the 11-man Interstate Commerce Commission act instead of stall.

Kennedy has asked Congress to empower the ICC, for a two-year period, to hand down decisions in this railroad-union argument which already has dragged on for four years.

He also wants the ICC to have authority to get a federal court injunction to stop a railroad strike if the unions don't like its decisions. This should save the country from a withering shutdown until at least 1965.

Thus the railroad case wouldn't be an issue in the 1964 election. After that a re-elected Kennedy or his successor would have until 1965 to face the problem again, if there is still one by then.

The plan as Kennedy devised it may cost him the votes of some railroad workers next year, if they lose their jobs through ICC decisions, but organized labor as a whole wouldn't have much reason to be sore at him.

It might have been very sore if, instead of this plan, he had asked Congress to force a settlement by compelling railroads and unions to submit to compulsory arbitration, a device unions and management both detest.

That would be naked use of government power. Kennedy in his message to Congress Monday also expressed distaste for settling disputes through compulsory arbitration.

But the very plan he worked out, and the way he worked it out, is in effect compulsory arbitration although he didn't dress it with that name. He made it sound much milder.

This is why:

Since the ICC can hand down decisions, and can get a court injunction to prevent a strike if the unions resent the decisions, the result is that the unions will have to accept the ICC's findings. That's compulsory arbitration.

True, the decisions are supposed to last only for the two-year life of the ICC's authority. After that, supposedly, the decisions will have no effect and railroads and unions will be free to settle their differences themselves.

But if then a strike threatened again, the President would again step in by asking that the ICC's authority be renewed for another two years or he'd try some other method. But he wouldn't let a strike happen.

The ICC's almost total power will be the manpower one. The railroads want to cut expenses—and presidential commissions and the Supreme Court have said they have a right to — by wiping out jobs which, they argue, have been rendered unnecessary by modernization.

The railroads want to eliminate thousands of jobs, mostly those of firemen who used to be needed to shovel coal in steam locomotives but now ride in diesel engines.

Under Kennedy's proposal men whose jobs are ordered eliminated by the ICC are to be transferred to other ones or, if they are laid off, are to get severance pay, like 60 per cent of their regular salary for three years, or other benefits.

Suppose that, for the two years before the ICC's authority ends, they've been laid off or removed to other jobs. When the ICC then no longer can give orders will the union leaders start another national crisis to get their jobs back?

They might try, but it's doubtful they would. Their cause would have lost much of its steam not only in the public mind but probably in the view of the other unionists who still had jobs. The excuse for a strike would be diminished.

Up to now union leaders—in the face of approval of job elimination by a presidential commission and the Supreme Court—have refused to yield. This is understandable.

The leaders, elected by their union members, are paid to fight for them and their own jobs depend on their members' support. They can say they did all they could if now, under congressional approval, the ICC starts wiping out jobs.

They can truthfully say there's an end to how much fighting they do against the government. Thus the Kennedy plan is in a sense protection for the union leaders even though its purpose is to eliminate jobs.

From several standpoints, particularly a political one, the plan is shrewd although Kennedy has already been condemned for not taking a more direct, forceful stand to end the whole dispute fast instead of letting it stretch out.

Make Sheets Stay Put

By Polly Craiger
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — Many of us find that we do not have enough fitted sheets or that they wear out before the straight ones do. Here's how to make a straight sheet fit tightly. Tie a knot in one corner of a straight sheet and slip it over a corner of the mattress.

Go to the opposite side and end of the bed (diagonally across) pull the sheet taut, tie a knot there and slip it under the mattress. Go to the other two corners and do the same and you will have a smooth sheet that will not pull out. This is not as tight as the fitted ones, but tight enough so it will not slip out. Of course, these knots must be untied before washing the sheet. They stay in place more securely for me than the mitered corners. —MRS. C. L. C.

GIRLS — I decided what was good for the bottom sheet must offer something for the top one. I also knotted the two lower corners of the top sheet so it does not pull out. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY — When the lady of the house misplaces the belt to a dress, one of her husband's ties can often serve the purpose. If you prefer, buy a few ties that will go with certain dresses. These gay belts bring new life and style to an old basic dress. —MRS. M. H.

DEAR POLLY—When the family takes off for a day at the beach, it's a good idea to tie a red streamer of ribbon on spoons or toys that you do not want to lose. That way although the spoon may get buried in the sand part of the ribbon will still be showing. —MRS. H. J. G.

GIRLS — This letter reminded me of how we all used to laugh at my mother-in-law for tying a red ribbon to her car keys. We laughed until we were miles in the country, on a cold snowy day,

This Summer You Must Bee Aware of Insect's Power

By Wayne G. Brandstadt, M. D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Insects are here to stay. But sometimes their stings may cause annoyance, severe illness and sometimes death.

It is wise to take precautions when in the vicinity of these creatures. If, for example, you are gardening in an area where bees abound you should wear white smooth clothing rather than dark rough materials.

This will make you less likely to attract or distract the bees. In such areas women should not apply perfume or other cosmetics in the daytime as this will fool the bees into mistaking them for flowers.

Although the bumblebee has a smooth stinger and can sting you repeatedly, the ordinary worker of the honey bee tribe has a barbed stinger. When he stings you the stinger is torn from his body when he departs.

This is a suicidal maneuver for him but it results in protecting others of his kind. He will not commit hari kari, however, unless he is sorely provoked.

If he approaches you do not wave your arms or try to brush him away. He finds such behavior most unacceptable. Just walk away slowly.

If he lights on you use a little self control. Pretend to ignore him and in a minute or two (it may seem much longer) he will recognize his mistake and go away.

If he stings you, carefully remove the stinger with tweezers and apply ammonia water, strong laundry soap, or a paste made of baking soda and water. You can then apply an icepack to lessen the pain and delay absorption of the venom.

An antihistaminic ointment will also relieve the pain. If none is handy, calamine lotion, although not as effective, may help. Since bee venom has both an acid and an alkaline component, vinegar may be used instead of baking soda but it would be no good to use both at once.

Beekkeepers who are stung many times often develop an immunity to bee venom, but with some persons a single sting sets up an allergic response. If the victim is stung again, he may have a serious or even fatal reaction. When such an allergy is known to exist, desensitization by a physician who has some knowledge of allergy should be accomplished.

By improved methods a susceptible person can be immunized in one visit early in the spring and be protected for the entire summer. As an added protection anyone who is hypersensitive to bee venom should also carry an emergency kit containing tweezers, isoproterenol (Isuprel) tablets, an epinephrine solution in a disposable syringe (Ampin), a tourniquet, and an antiseptic cloth. If stung he should call a doctor immediately.

The other serious danger occurs when a person, usually a child, gets stung by 400 or more angry bees at one time. It is estimated that more deaths occur every year from hypersensitivity to bees or multiple stings than from bites of poisonous snakes in the United States.

For wasp stings vinegar is better than baking soda and an antihistaminic ointment is better yet. For yellow jacket stings apply alkali in some form. My advice is to get out and enjoy nature but know the dangers and what to do in an emergency.

It's a Fat Problem

By RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

When a woman who once had a perfect figure begins to put on weight, she creates a problem for her husband.

He's afraid to hurt her feelings by telling her she's getting fat, but his silence convinces her that he's indifferent to the change. So she continues to overeat.

There probably isn't any way a husband can get his wife to go on a strict diet to regain her streamlined figure without hurting her feelings. It hurts any woman's ego to be told outright that she isn't as attractive as she once was—that she's less than perfect in her husband's eyes.

But if a husband really hates to see his wife get fat, he ought to take a stand on the matter. In the end, he'll hurt her worse by losing interest in her appearance, or by letting her see that he has lost the pride he used to have in showing her off.

Wives, however, shouldn't put their husbands on such an unhappy spot. A woman who is aware of how her husband feels can figure out without being told that he hates to see her gain weight.

He'll probably start kidding her a little. Or he may wonder out loud why she doesn't wear the kind of clothes she used to wear. Or, perhaps, he'll start commenting on the appearance of some other woman about her age who has kept her figure. Even though he doesn't say so, the man who doesn't like to see his wife losing her figure will hint that he has noticed that she is putting on weight.

The smart wife won't laugh off his comments. She'll get busy on a self-improvement project.

The Mature Parent

The Inner Accuser

By MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Dear Mrs. Lawrence: This morning my 7-year-old boy told me that he had cleaned his teeth. But when I went up to the bathroom, I found his toothbrush dry. He lies like this all the time. I don't trust him to turn off his light at night because I know he will say he has done it when he hasn't. But the lie which upsets me most is the way he says he hasn't heard me when I call him. Even if he is just in the next room. . . .

Answer: Do you know what you sound like? A prosecuting attorney—the man who wants the prisoner at the bar found guilty of sin, condemned and removed from circulation.

I bet that if you say some hurtful thing to a friend, you accuse yourself so mercilessly that you avoid seeing the friend again. If anyone criticizes you, I bet your sense of resentful humiliation remains undigested in you, keeping you as uncomfortable and nervous as a too-heavy meal keeps the stomach. I bet that you are uncertain in most of your dealings with people, continually wondering, "Do they hate me? Am I doing the right thing? I must somehow do the pleasing thing—or I will be punished for it."

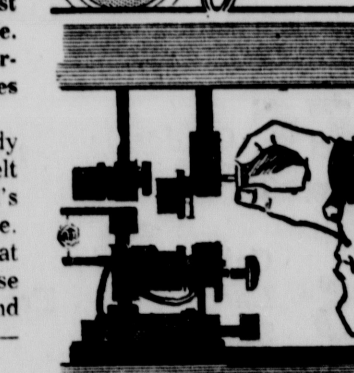

Of course your son tells you lies. Of course he insists that he's brushed his teeth when he hasn't. He's as scared of displeasing you as you are of displeasing other people. So he lies when he has displeased you by omitting to brush his teeth. To live with a prosecutor, you have to defend yourself somehow against his craving to convict you of sin.

You know, the prosecuting attorney is in all of us to say, "She is guilty. She did a bad thing. So she is not wanted and requires punishment." If we have no defense attorney in ourselves to make our mistakes seem human and understandable to us, then we cannot pronounce any constructive judgment on ourselves or others.

Please try to find room for the defending attorney in yourself. If you don't, you may become so preoccupied with thoughts of your own badness that you'll be able to see only badness in your son's wish to keep his light on at night. Do you know why he wants to keep it on? Have you asked him why? Why not?

and my husband lost the car keys. They probably would still be lost if that red ribbon had not peeped through the deep snow.—POLLY

Stocks, Bonds Tax Splits Cabinet

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — There was more than met the eye behind JFK's sudden recommendation of a U.S. tax on the foreign stock and bond issues floated in this country. In taking the step he ran counter to his own Secretary of the Treasury, Douglas Dillon, who once was head of one of the biggest Wall Street investment firms which floats foreign securities.

There was no cat-and-dog fight over the tax. Secretary Dillon, though a Republican, is a loyal member of the Kennedy team. Nevertheless, the tax on foreign issues was proposed four months ago, and nothing happened.

First proposal was made to the President by Rep. Wright Patman, the Texarkana, Tex., Democrat who heads the House Banking and Currency Committee and is a nettle for small business. During a talk with Kennedy last March, Patman warned of the disastrous effect on the economy if the Federal Reserve raised interest rates in order to check the gold outflow. Instead Patman urged a tax on both foreign stocks and bonds floated in the United States, and on American direct investments by U.S. business firms in foreign countries.

Kennedy asked Patman to write him a letter on the subject and was so impressed with the letter that he had it mimeographed and sent it to Secretary Dillon and other financial advisers in the administration.

The Treasury, however, did nothing. It claimed the tax would upset the investment market. Undersecretary of the Treasury Robert V. Roosa did talk to key members of the Ways and Means Committee, which writes the taxes, and later reported that the committee was unenthusiastic.

Continued Drains

Meanwhile the drain on the dollar continued. Chrysler sent $100,000,000 to France to complete the purchase of Simca stock. Dillon Reed, the old firm of Secretary Dillon, helped float stock and bond issues for Japan Development Bank, $21,700,000; Hitachi Ltd., of Japan, $20,800,000; City of Milan, $9,700,000; Government of Norway, $12,000,000; Dai Nippon Printing Co., $5,000,000; Nippon Telegraph and Telephone, $20,000,000; Austrian Investment Finance Co., $5,000,000.

There were various other issues handled by other Wall Street houses, ranging from Quebec Hydro-Electric for $300,000,000 to the Republic of Panama $9,000,000; and from Manitoba Hydro-Electric for $25,000,000 to the City of Montreal for $25,000,000.

The great majority of these issues were to Canadian, Mexican or other friendly allies and neighbors, so the Treasury, understandably was opposed to making the money market more difficult for them.

On July 10, however, with the drain on the dollar continuing, the Joint Economic Subcommittee, under the chairmanship of Rep. Henry Reuss, D-Wis., called Secretary Dillon.

"The committee in the past has recommended that we make foreign access to our 'new issues' market in Wall Street more difficult and more expensive, either by screening or by taxation," Reuss said. "The administration has rejected this recommendation. What are the reasons?"

"I think I expressed the reasons rather fully regarding the difficulties of exchange controls," replied Dillon. "I don't think I can add much to that. We don't feel that a partial exchange control would work."

However, Reuss, Wright Patman, and Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., kept up the pressure.

The White House decision to recommend this tax took place at a closed door meeting July 15 which included the President, Dillon, Chief Economic Adviser Walter Heller, and William McInnes Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

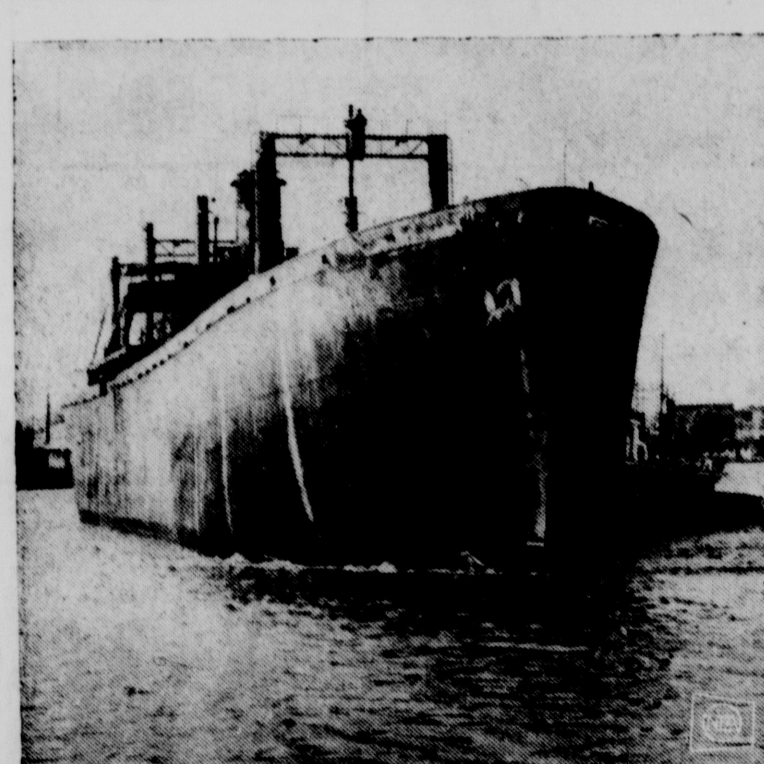

Three days before, Martin had raised the Federal Reserve rediscount rate, and Kennedy was alarmed that this would cause tight money and put a brake on business loans and the general economy. He called Martin in to make sure there were to be no more interest rates hikes.

It seemed obvious that either there would have to be further interest hikes to stop the drain on the dollar, or a tax on foreign issues floated in Wall Street. Dr. Heller argued in favor of the latter. Secretary Dillon at this point agreed.

Note — Secretary Dillon, a man of high integrity, had no conflict of interest in taking his original position. He resigned as chairman of Dillon, Reed and Co., when he entered public service in 1953.

Merry-Go-Round

Dick Paul, son of the Treasury's famed tax expert in New Deal days, Randolph Paul, played a big role in the recent SEC report urging stricter regulation on Wall Street. . . Jimmy Cromwell, one-time Ambassador to Canada and now chairman of the American Realty and Petroleum Corp. is pushing for a code of ethical conduct to protect the public on Western and Florida land development. Jimmy has a development of his own, Rio Rancho Estates, about the size of Brooklyn outside of Albuquerque, doesn't like the bad reputation some unethical developers have given to the legitimate developers. . . The seeds of friendship planted by Lyndon Johnson in Pakistan two years ago are still sprouting. In addition to bringing back the famous Pakistani camel driver, Lyndon raised a fund for the son of Tom O'Halloran, chief photographer of Newsweek, killed in an auto accident while the Johnson party was in Pakistan. The fund was used to rehabilitate a local Pakistani injured in a ditch. He was given an artificial leg and trained to be a barber. The "Barber of Karangi" has now become a No. 1 booster for the U.S.A.

BACK FROM PASTURE—The Charles H. Cagle, a World War II Liberty Ship in mothballs since 1948, is moved from its Reserve Fleet mooring to a Mobile, Ala., shipyard where it will be refitted to serve as the world's first floating nuclear power station. The complete center section of the ship will be removed and replaced by a new section housing the power plant, which will be able to generate enough electricity for a community of 20,000. The project, under the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, is scheduled for completion by 1965.

Love Affairs With Cars Carry Economic Impact

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Americans' love affair with the family car is making weekend weather an economic force in many businesses, large and small.

If the weather was miserable in your area the last few days, the effect might be felt in time as far away as Detroit and Akron or the oil fields of Texas—and certainly was noted sadly by dealers, resort keepers, highway restaurants and motels, both near you and some distance away.

The United States has so many family cars—some 66 million, or 60 per cent of the world's total—that it is the only nation that can carry all its population at the same time (at some three persons to a car).

And if the weather was good this past weekend in your area, and you were on the highway, you may have thought all 66 million were out there, too.

An entire summer of especially poor (or good) weather could mean a variation of up to 10 billion vehicle miles of highway travel. Such an extreme case would mean a difference of about 700 million gallons of gas burned up, 350,000 tires worn out, and perhaps 300 million meals at roadside eateries.

Also affected by weekend weather are many things, from the sale of bikinis and sun lotion to the picnic supplies and car rental services.

For example, makers of suntan or sunburn lotions and creams have raised their annual sales from $7 million ten years ago to $14 million last year. Whether this summer's weekends are fair or dreary can have a lot to do with the industry's reaching its 1963 sales goal of $20 million.

The $1.7 billion a year motel industry is particularly sensitive to family decisions to take off for a long weekend jaunt or to stay home because of the weather. Some 45,000 motels and motor hotels, with 960,000 rooms, have a national yearly average occupancy of 69 per cent. Good weather can raise this by 1 per cent and give an even greater boost to profits.

Resort hotels suffer from a prolonged wet spell, but motels are even more sensitive to weekend weather prospects. As Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges recently told operators of Howard Johnson's 650 roadside restaurants and 150 motor lodges, some 100 million Americans make 230 million trips for long or short distances each year. Weekend weather was a prime economic factor with his audience.

It also is with many others, including Holiday Inns of America, which has 388 inns in 41 states, and Ramada Inns, based in Phoenix, Arizona, but operating roadside hotels across the nation.

The Automobile Manufacturers Association says auto travel has jumped 47 per cent in the years to 733 billion vehicle miles a year. This is expected to increase further as the Bureau of Public Roads pushes its program for a 41,000-mile high-speed network of four-lane highways, tempting Americans to lengthen their travels because of savings in travel time. And the more mileage clocked on weekends, the better in the long run for sellers of new and used cars.

The nation's 200,000 service stations sold 66 billion gallons of gas last year. Officials of Humble Oil & Refining Company, affiliate of Jersey Standard Oil, estimate a drop of 10 billion vehicle miles in pleasure travel due to bad weather could cut sales by $210 million for the industry and federal and state gas tax revenues by $21 million.

This year the tire industry hopes to sell around 35 million new tires to the auto makers, and some 81 million replacement tires to motorists. Heat is the big enemy of tires, according to officials of the U.S. Rubber Company, especially heat built up during sustained high speed driving of the kind that fair weather weekends encourage. The result, the more good weather, the more fast trips, and the more tire replacements.

HAVE ARMY, WILL TRAVEL.—Trained to conduct pre-assault and distant-post assault reconnaissance in support of a landing force, members of the Marines' Force Reconnaissance Companies don't travel light. Above, a Recon Marine at Camp Geiger, N.C., leans against a man-size bag in which weapons, food and vital equipment have been tightly packed. A mixture of paratrooper, frogman and Indian scout, the Marine will jump with the bag behind "enemy" lines. Once on the ground, he will bury the parachute and proceed with the mission. Information gathered will be transmitted back by radio, also carried in the bag.

Fears Stilled

Sicilian Woman Accuses Mafia Members of Murder

By BENNETT M. BOLTON

ROME (AP)—A grieving Sicilian woman whose family was wiped out by Mafia vengeance finally said "basta"—enough.

Because she did, 29 "Mafiosi" (Mafia members) are now accused in 9 of 600 murders blamed on the Mafia since 1945. The shotgun blasts that killed Rosa Messina's husband and five sons ripped away the fear that had long stilled her tongue.

For the first time in a century and a half cracks are beginning to open in the solid wall of silence that has shielded the dread Mafia secret society from the law.

The Messina case is typical of many pressures that may eventually spell the doom of Sicily's so-called "Honorable Society."

Word is out in the rugged hill country around Palermo in Sicily's northwest coast that the "gadalu Cairisi" (Cairo roosters) have begun, one of the biggest "cuvari" (nestings) of all time. This is Mafia underworld lingo meaning that police patrols have taken to the bush in one of the most determined anti-Mafia drives ever.

Why is there so much expectation that this time the Mafia may be shaken to the ground, when thousands of Benito Mussolini's troops could do nothing in a similar campaign almost 40 years ago?

Part of the answer is to be found in the slaughter of seven policemen, blown to pieces June 30 in a booby-trapped car. They were investigating a similar time-bomb blast that killed two workmen the day before in a Palermo suburb.

The deaths shocked the Italian nation. They launched a mass police roundup of suspected Mafia henchmen, with hundreds bagged so far. It prodded Parliament in Rome to move faster in a special commission investigating the Mafia. It gave Italian newspapers incentive to publish photos of wanted Mafiosi and to write article after article against the primitive Mafia code of protection. The Mafia provides this protection in exchange for special considerations, with death and violence for those who get in the way, back out, or talk.

But the broader answer is seen in changing attitudes of the crowded island at Italy's tip, where Palermo is the Mafia's headquarters.

The Sicilians are beginning to see the world outside. Television and the new prosperity on the Italian mainland are showing them it is possible for people to live peaceful, private lives without being forever tied to a web of fear, extortion and murder.

For years the people of Sicily, under the long tradition of Mafia intrigue, accepted their lot as a state of necessity—cooperate with the Mafia and live, or cross the Mafia and die.

But the current revulsion has trickled down to the Sicilian peasant. At last people like Mrs. Messina are willing to break the code of "omerta" (silence or death) and name names.

The Mafia was born of desperate need on Sicily. The Mediterranean Island has known at least 16 conquerors in 2,000 years. The secret society was the Sicilians' warlord-rulers.

The Mafia took care of its own and visited death upon rapacious outlanders. But the violent nature of the Mafia's activities led to extortion, blackmail, ransom, and murder through vendetta—the vengeance killing that cuts down any or all in the family of an offender.

For generations the Sicilian looked to the Mafia as his hope for the future. It was the "Honorable Society" and for many it will always be. No one opens a bar or a shoe store around Palermo without permission. No farmer's acreage prospers unless the Mafia gives its okay. For the entrepreneur that means "wetting the beak"—paying his secret taxes to the Mafia.

No prison or fortress is too strong, no foreign land too distant for the Mafia to catch up with those who break its rules.

A Socialist deputy from Sicily said 153 persons from his home town alone had been slain by the Mafia in the past 20 years.

"A democratic state cannot tolerate that any longer," he added. The parliamentary investigation, with every Italian political party in support, is developing a two-pronged approach.

One plan is to draft immediate emergency measures to hunt out the Mafia itself. The other is a long-range program to overcome the "state of necessity" by bulldozing the ground that allows the Mafia to flourish—poverty, ignorance, superstition—through a flood of economic, educational and social aid for the lethargic regions of Sicily.

The Mafia is also said to exist in the United States, exported during the great wave of Sicilian immigration at the turn of the century and nurtured in Chicago, St. Louis and New York during the Roaring Twenties.

Italian law enforcement officials scoff at the idea, however. For years they have been watching 500 men, deported to their native Sicily from the United States as undesirables or as illegally entered aliens, and they say they have never been able to link them with international dope and crime.

Today is Wednesday, July 24, the 205th day of 1963. There are 160 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

X-rays were so named by their discoverer, William Roentgen, because they then were rays of unknown origin and an "x" is used as a scientific symbol for the unknown, hence X-ray.

SCHOOL COW—We don't know about Mary's Little Lamb, but a cow is going to school in Minneapolis. In fact, she—her name's Pat the Ayrshire cow—is going to a number of schools in the metropolitan area, accompanied by Princess Kay of the Milky Way (Kathleen Hjelte of Argyle, Minn.). It's all part of a program, sponsored by the Minnesota Dairy Industry, to acquaint children and the general public with elements of the dairy industry—of which the cow is a pretty important one. Above, Pat and Princess Kay delight a group of children.

Old Time Press Agents Are Gone

By JAMES BACON

AP Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Most of the fun left Hollywood about the time press agents started calling themselves public relations consultants.

No public relations man could ever have created Ned Farrington but Dave Epstein, a press agent, did.

For years, Epstein would plant stories in the trade papers that New York producer Ned Farrington was in town conferring with various directors, stars, cameramen and music scorers—all Epstein clients.

The gimmick never failed to get his clients' names in print.

Bill Thomas and Bill Pine, later to be producers, were press agents of the old school. Mae West started a movie called "It Ain't No Sin."

Pine and Thomas conceived the idea of training 200 parrots to repeat "It Ain't No Sin."

"We lived with those parrots for weeks," Pine recalls. "It was the most beautiful chorus I ever heard—200 parrots who could say nothing but 'It ain't no sin.'"

"We were ready to ship them to the movie writers when the producer of the picture called us. He changed the title of the movie to 'She Done Him Wrong.'"

India has a greater population than the United States and the Soviet Union combined.
